The label associated with each bar indicates the date and time at which the phase is reached, while the associated labels indicate the rising and setting times of the Moon for the nearest time interval when the Moon is above the horizon. The average graduation days accumulated in New Delhi are increasing very rapidly in May, increasing by 1,030°F, from 2,234°F to 3,263°F, during the month. The station data is corrected for the difference in elevation between the station and New Delhi according to the International Standard Atmosphere, and for the relative change in the MERRA-2 satellite reanalysis between the two locations. By way of reference, on July 31, the cloudiest day of the year, the probability of cloudiness is 59%, while on October 14, the clearest day of the year, the probability of a clear, mostly clear or partly cloudy sky is 96%. A wet day is a day with at least 0.04 inches of liquid or liquid-equivalent precipitation. The area within 2 miles of New Delhi is covered by artificial land (99%), within 10 miles by artificial land (79%) and cropland (14%), and within 50 miles by cropland (91%). We also take care that our travel scores are only as valid as the data on which they are based, that weather conditions anywhere and now are unpredictable and variable, and that the score setting reflects a particular set of preferences that may not coincide with those of a particular reader. By way of reference, on 16 August, the muddest day of the year, conditions will occur. Humidity 99% of the time, while January 28th, the least sultry day of the year, conditions of humidity occur by 0% of the time.
